

Jonathan Chambers

Called: 1996

Jonathan has a broad practice covering all aspects of commercial, transport and insurance law. He is qualified to practise in England, Wales and Northern Ireland. He is also qualified as an Australian Barrister/Solicitor (presently non-practising).

He is particularly interested in cases with an international aspect and is fully conversant with all international transport conventions and principles of private international law. He is particularly experienced in obtaining freezing injunctions and anti-suit injunctions.

He is consistently ranked by Chambers UK and Legal 500 as a Leading Senior Junior.

Chambers UK, 2019: "His experience and understanding of the law and his commercial awareness has been of great assistance. He is very approachable, exceptionally knowledgeable, provides clear advice and finds the time to make himself available."

Chambers UK (2018) : "A tenacious advocate with an admired intellectual capacity. His redoubtable practice focuses on complex cases involving personal injury and fatality"

Chambers UK (2018) "He is easy to work with and responsive. He quickly identifies the issues"

Chambers UK (2016): "Noted by peers for his meticulous preparation, strong advocacy skills and easy manner with clients"

Legal 500 (2016): "Very well prepared"

He has also advised on disputes involving Australia, Canada, the Channel Islands, Hong Kong, Northern Ireland, Scotland, Singapore, and the United States of America.

Jonathan has acted for and against many shipowners, crewing agencies and insurance companies. He also acts both for and against major airlines, cruise and tour operators, UK airports, the CAA and the MCA. He also acts on behalf of shipyards, ship-owners, rig owners, crewing agencies and shipping unions and has provided a number of advices on yachting matters to the Royal Yachting Association (RYA).

He is involved in a large volume of wet and dry shipping cases including cargo claims, pilotage, collisions and groundings. International ship-building, rig-construction and repair cases are also a strong feature of his practice.

He frequently acts in inquests, generally involving aviation and maritime incidents and then acts in the civil claims which follow.

Jonathan has acted in a number of recent and reported cases including:

- Nathan Jones v Ministry of Defence [2017] Claim No. D90MA019 – civil claim following incident on RAF Airbus A330 Voyager aircraft call sign ZZ333 on air transport flight from RAF Brize Norton to Camp Bastion Airfield, Afghanistan.
