Emily is a commercial litigator with a particular specialism in commercial fraud, banking and finance and insolvency. She has broad experience in obtaining urgent injunctive relief including freezing orders, search orders, asset preservation orders and delivery up orders. Emily's banking and finance practice has an emphasis on financial derivatives instruments, and standard form contracts including the ISDA Master Agreement.

Emily is ranked in the latest edition of Chambers & Partners in commercial dispute resolution and she is recommended as a leading junior in banking and finance and financial services by the Legal 500. Latest comments include: "Has a razor-sharp mind and a prodigious work ethic. Her ability to review, analyse and interrogate vast quantities of information is remarkable."

She has experience in cases involving contractual interpretation and rectification; dishonest assistance; fraud; bribery; fraudulent trading; rights of set-off; contractual estoppel; rights under contracts of indemnity; and guarantees.

Emily has broad experience advising and acting for both liquidators and creditors across a variety of matters ranging from asset recovery and actions against directors to applications to restrain the presentation and/or advertisement of winding up petitions, and obtaining validation orders.

Before embarking on a career in law, Emily was a financial journalist covering the global derivatives markets. She brings a strong understanding and useful insider's perspective on financial markets to her legal practice.
