Pupillage at Quadrant Chambers

What we look for

The work of the Commercial Bar is intellectually demanding.

We therefore look for candidates with a strong academic background. Successful applicants will often have (or be predicted) a first class degree, and generally must have / be predicted at least a high 2:1 to apply, though we will consider candidates with lower degree classifications in exceptional circumstances.

Many of our applicants read law for their first degree, and an increasing number also have postgraduate law degrees. These are by no means pre-requisites and we welcome applications from candidates who have studied any serious academic subject at university. Many members did not read law as their first degree and our application process is designed to identify critical thinking abilities rather than detailed knowledge of law.

Our work requires excellent analytical ability, strong written and oral communication skills and the capacity to perform under pressure.

Our pupillage selection process is carefully designed to assess these qualities.

When assessing applicants, we adopt a contextualised system in order to help ensure a diverse pool of candidates.

Successful candidates must also demonstrate that they have the commitment, energy and resilience to succeed in the competitive world of the Commercial Bar. We assess this having regard to their academic record, extra-curricular activities, mooting, and performance in interview.

Pupillage award

Quadrant Chambers offers up to three fully-funded pupillages of 12 months’ duration, commencing in October 2023.

Each pupillage carries an award of £75,000. Up to £25,000 may be advanced during the BPTC year at the Pupillage Committee’s discretion. Quadrant Chambers also pays for all the compulsory courses which pupils are required to undertake during pupillage.
The pupillage year

Our aim is to offer all our pupils tenancy at the end of their pupillage.

The pupillage year is therefore designed to teach our pupils how to develop the skills, knowledge and sound judgment they will need to become successful commercial barristers.

At the start of pupillage, each pupil is assigned a pupil supervisor or pair of supervisors who will be responsible for training and supervising his/her work for the first three months. During the first few weeks, we offer pupils a series of introductory lectures on important areas of law and practice.

Pupils change supervisors after three, six and nine months.

We endeavour to assign pupils to pupil supervisors with differing practices, so that they can experience the widest possible range of work.

‘Pupillage is a demanding but rewarding process. Quite often you will be doing challenging pieces of work that a supervisor of 15 years call is also working on, but that helps you to learn much more and sets you up well for the start of practice. Pieces of work during pupillage are deliberately chosen to test your skills as well as to help you improve. I found the work over the course of the year very interesting.

I got on really well with all my supervisors and found that they were genuinely concerned to help me improve my work. I find everyone I have come across in Chambers to be approachable and happy to answer any queries.

I would recommend any prospective pupil interested in commercial law to apply to Quadrant. There is plenty of work at the junior end including opportunities to conduct your own cases as well as assist more senior members in bigger matters.’

Robert Ward, New Tenant in 2019
Pupils spend much of their time drafting opinions, pleadings, skeleton arguments and other documents for their pupil supervisors. In addition, they accompany their pupil supervisors to hearings and conferences, and assist them with legal research or other tasks.

As part of their training, pupils are required to perform a series of assessed advocacy exercises and several assessed written exercises. Pupils receive formal feedback at the end of their time with each pupil supervisor. Pupil supervisors also offer regular, ongoing feedback on individual pieces of work and on the pupil’s general progress, thereby allowing pupils to understand quickly what they are doing well and where they need to improve.

Pupils are encouraged to comment on the feedback that they receive and on all other aspects of their training. Where a pupil needs to improve in a particular area, his/ her pupil supervisor will give him/ her additional practice and organise specific training exercises in that area.

“All of my supervisors were diligent and dedicated when it came to providing me with feedback. I always felt that I knew what I needed to improve on and that my supervisors were spending significant time to help me improve.’

Jamie Hamblen, New Tenant in 2018
Women at Quadrant Chambers

Quadrant is very keen to support and encourage women in considering a career at the commercial bar.

We hold a women at the bar event, where aspiring barristers can talk informally to our barristers and openly discuss life and work as a woman at the bar.

They regularly host, attend and speak at events and conferences. Quadrant also promotes and supports women’s networking and equal opportunity events.

Parental Support

Quadrant provides support to all our new parents both financially with rent-free periods and with practice management in the lead up to and return from parental leave.

‘The Commercial Bar is a great career for women but the number of applicants remains disappointingly low. I hope that more women will consider a fulfilling and rewarding career at the commercial bar and at Quadrant in particular. We are proud of our women and support and encourage the development of their careers.

We are proud of the fact that 10 of our women are working mums and that all have returned to Chambers following the birth of their children. This is testament to the understanding, support and flexibility which Chambers provides.’

Poonam Melwani QC

Women play prominent and leading roles in the business of Chambers via our internal committees and Route to Market Groups.

Eleven of our female barristers are ranked in multiple areas of the current UK Bar, Asia Pacific and Global Directories. They are recommended across aviation, banking, commercial litigation, energy, financial services, insolvency, international arbitration, shipping and travel.

‘As the father of two young children, I was supported by Chambers in the early days of parenthood by the 6-week rent holiday offered to those on parental leave, and the support of my clerks in managing deadlines and client expectations during and shortly after my return from parental leave. Being self-employed, I am also able to work from home when not in hearings and have the freedom to determine my working hours, which enables me to do the school run.’

Andrew Leung

‘I would highlight the fantastic support from both the clerks room and leaders in Chambers for female barristers when they go on maternity leave and upon their return. They understand that it can be a challenging time and work with you to help make it a smooth and positive experience. That approach is not universal at the Commercial Bar and I think that Quadrant leads the field in this respect.’

Gemma Morgan
We understand that pupillage is inevitably a stressful time.

To help our pupils we have put in place a pastoral care/mentoring scheme. Each year an experienced pupillage supervisor will step outside the teaching/assessment programme and will be available for the pupils to speak to on an entirely confidential basis.

This enables pupils to speak freely about any problems or issues they may be having, so that they can be resolved as swiftly as possible.

When a pupil is offered a tenancy, they are not immediately allocated their own room. Instead, for the first 6 to 12 months of tenancy they will share a room with one of our established juniors. We find that this provides the best transition from pupillage to tenancy.

‘During my pupillage I was genuinely impressed with the efforts people went to in order to try and make us feel both welcome and supported. We had a talk very early on about well-being at the Bar which explained various formal avenues of support, but more informally there were a number of events aimed at helping us feel integrated – from social evenings with the junior tenants, to a night out with the pupils and the entire clerking team.’

Will Mitchell, New Tenant in 2018

Wellbeing at the Bar
Members regularly appear in the Court of Appeal and Supreme Court in the highest-profile cases, often with far-reaching implications.

(Chambers & Partners, 2021)

Earnings during Pupillage

Pupils do not do paid work in their first nine months of pupillage.

Once the tenancy decision has been taken, successful pupils will start to build their own practice, with the help of Quadrant’s clerking team, and will see their earnings develop rapidly.

Pupils retain all their earnings from this work, with no resulting reduction in their pupillage award.

Chambers’ expenses are not payable on any earnings in the final three months of pupillage.

Sources of funding prior to commencement of pupillage

The Inns of Court all offer scholarships to help students fund their GDL and BPTC years. Details can be found at the following websites:

Tenancy at Quadrant Chambers

Tenancy decisions are based principally on the considered views of the pupil’s own pupil supervisors and the pupil’s performance in assessed exercises.

Tenancy decision

Tenancy decisions are made after nine months’ pupillage, around the end of June.

These decisions are based principally on the considered views of the pupil’s own pupil supervisors and the pupil’s performance in assessed exercises.

There is no quota: we offer tenancy to all pupils who achieve the required standard of excellence.

Our hope is that all our pupils will achieve the standard we are looking for and be offered tenancy.

‘The supervisors are always keen to give detailed feedback to help you in areas where you can improve. They see their primary job as to do everything they can to help you cross the finish line and get tenancy.’

Tom Nixon, New Tenant in 2018

Life as a junior tenant

In the first year of practice, a new tenant at Quadrant Chambers on average can earn around £130,000. Thereafter, earnings should rapidly increase.

In the first year tenants receive considerable discounts on Chambers’ charges and pay no fee at all in their first 6 months.

In order to assist new tenants with financial planning, an interest free loan is available at the discretion of the Management Committee in the first year of tenancy.

During their early years in practice, Members of Chambers regularly appear in court and arbitration on their own, in small banking, aviation, shipping and insolvency matters. We believe that this is essential for developing advocacy skills. Junior tenants also act as juniors in much larger cases alongside more senior Members of Chambers.

... great for international commercial disputes and the set is strong throughout...
